FREE TO ACT SCHOOLS

MIEACT's No Labels program explores bullying from a person-centred approach with a focus on the effects of bullying behaviour on individuals and their well-being. Students are given the opportunity to discuss various types of bullying in their environment and are introduced to strategies to manage their wellbeing. This is an interactive session delivered by a qualified educator with educational content and wellbeing strategies that are evidence-informed.

By the end of the session participants will:

- understand the different forms that bullying can take;
- understand the three common roles in bullying incidents (the one experiencing, the one displaying and the one witnessing bullying);
- understand the impacts of bullying on each of the three common bullying players;
- identify strategies for managing the impacts of bullying behaviour;
- identify strategies for improving their own mental health and wellbeing;
- know how to appropriately respond to uncomfortable situations.

"I probably should re-evaluate how I interact with people. And I should check in with people, just to see about the casual teasing and whether it is OK with them or not..."
